

Dialogues between Croucher Innovation Awardees and RPg Students

The Graduate School is pleased to offer opportunities for informal interactions between RPg students and Croucher Innovation Awardees, which aim at contributing to the development of critical questioning and thinking skills among RPg students in the emerging world of open innovation. Through these exchanges, the Awardees will share their experience and insights in innovative research, which also echoes one of the 3 'I' strategies of HKU – “internationalisation, innovation and interdisciplinarity”.

Here is the third session of the dialogue series:

April 25, 2017 (Tuesday), 12:45 pm to 1:45 pm, P501, Graduate House

Dr Carmen Chak Lui WONG

Recipient of the Croucher Innovation Award 2017

Assistant Professor, Department of Pathology, Li Ka Shing Faculty of Medicine

Making new discoveries is an important and exciting task of a scientist. During the process, young scientists need to develop various skills to overcome obstacles and equip themselves when serendipity arrives. Dr Wong is going to share with you her research journey. She hopes to provide some advice for research students on their career paths and most importantly how to keep their passion and sanity for research.

Online registration at EMS for RPg students:
