

Is there a recipe for good RPg supervision?

The Graduate School invites you to hear what our Outstanding Research Student Supervisor Awardees have to say.

A SHARING SESSION ON GOOD PRACTICES FOR RESEARCH STUDENT SUPERVISORS will be held:

Date: May 9, 2017 (Tuesday)

Time: 11:00 am – 12:30 pm

Venue: P501, Graduate House

Dr Roger Chan (Associate Professor in the Department of Urban Planning & Design), recipient of the Outstanding Research Student Supervisor Award 2013-14, will share on good practices and practical solutions in RPg supervision based on his experience at the U21 Research Supervisor Support & Development Workshop held in March 2015 at Shanghai Jiaotong University.

Professor Stephen Matthews (Professor in the School of Humanities (Linguistics)), recipient of the Outstanding Research Student Supervisor Award 2010-11, will share on his successful experience in RPg supervision, with a presentation entitled "Supervising postgraduate research: challenges and opportunities".

Professor Mee-Len Chye (Wilson and Amelia Wong Professor in Plant Biotechnology), Dean of the Graduate School, will inform you on the resources available to research student supervisors and RPg students.

The presentations will be followed by a Q&A session and participants' sharing of experiences and challenges encountered. This will be an excellent opportunity for teachers from all Faculties to come together to discuss good practices for RPg supervisors.
